We are thrilled to be hosting our 1st Annual Friends of the Flock Dinner to benefit the South Carolina Poultry Federation. This amazing event will be held in Columbia, South Carolina at City Roots on October 15th from 6 to 10 pm. City Roots at 1005 Airport Blvd, is a family-owned, 3.5 acre urban farm located in the heart of South Carolina's capital city. This daily working farm is transformed into one of the top outdoor venues for events by night.

The SCPF is the voice of the poultry industry in South Carolina. Each year we host an annual conference to serve as the primary fundraiser to support the federation, but like most all other conferences and conventions across the United States, COVID-19 forced us to cancel, hence the hatching of Friends of the Flock. The expression, "Tough times don't last but tough people do" has never been more appropriate than what we as an industry and nation have experienced this year.

We need your support now more than ever. We hope that you will sponsor and join us for what is sure to be an evening to remember!
